Google Apps Script is Now a Core Service

If you have taken a deep dive into Vibe Coding, you may know that Google Apps Script is a great tool to help create complex web apps or extensions. Now that this is a core service, your Vibe Coded apps can be created with confidence that data is not sold, viewed, or shared outside of your organization

Google Updates for AI

Daniel Priestley from The AI Educator did an excellent recap video summarizing the major Google updates in Google Classroom, Gemini, and NotebookLM/Gemini Notebook. The video covers the @GoogleClassrom option in the Gemini app, Guided Learning as an assignment, ACT practice testing, Teacher-assigned Study Notebooks, and more!

Gemini in Google Classroom for All Students

If enabled by your Google Admin, students of any age can access a litany of Gemini features directly inside Google Classroom. Students can access the Gemini tab to transform their class materials into interactive experiences that help them study and learn. For example, students who have access to Gemini can select course materials to create flashcards or practice quizzes with Gemini that are tailored to their class.

Timed Comments on Videos in Google Drive

Videos stored in your Google Drive will now give you the option to attach a comment to a specific time in the video. This can be great to clarify a point, add more information, link to another material, or ask questions related to what is being discussed at a given point in the video

Automatically Add Files to Gemini Notebooks from Drive

Historically, keeping Gemini Notebooks up to date would require you to manually add sources one by one. Now, this new integration lets you automate adding sources to your Gemini Notebooks as part of a recurring workflow. You can use the new Add a source to Gemini Notebook step to add text, links to Drive files, or generic Youtube or web URLs as sources to your notebooks to ensure your notebooks are always up to date on the latest content.

World Almanacs Rebrand as InfoLaunch

The World Almanac for Kids has been renamed InfoLaunch, while The World Almanac for Kids Elementary is now known as InfoLaunch Elementary. Both sources still provide great topic overviews, facts, videos, games, and teacher resources. You can locate these and other resources, by audience, at infohio.org.
